

"KIDding Around!" presents "TheatreMakers"

Lessons in "considerate communication" through improv and theater? You betcha! Plus literacy and storytelling, too, in this high energy program!

"KIDding Around!" is proud of the contribution that "TheatreMakers" is making in these challenging times.

The often zany show introduces elements of theater, improv, literacy, and storytelling with an underlying theme of creative conflict resolution and considerate communication. It is an invaluable addition to every school's enrichment program.

The interactive element makes the stage and the audience come alive so the lessons hit home for the kids.

When we teach our children to express their feelings through communication rather than violent words or actions, we plant the seeds for a generation that chooses coping over aggression.

In partnership with the Institute for Arts Education, we present a fresh and exciting theatrical assembly presentation that is delighting elementary school students. "TheatreMakers" debuted to high praise from both teachers and administrators -- not to mention some very exuberant kids!

The program is also available for non-school groups, such as parties or religious organizations.

"TheatreMakers" is aligned with the newly adopted Visual and Performing Arts standards of the state of California. It ties in beautifully with various aspects of curriculum and the students are spellbound! ("You guys are too funny!" we were recently told by a qualified nine-year-old theatre critic)
